FACULTY FURLoughs

CSU Faculty have by now submitted the prospective dates for their required furlough days. The impact on their work load can be seen above. As a further result of the budget cuts, about 1000 class sections have been cut. While some are optimistic about the ability of faculty to cope with the near 10% paycut, the first “reduced” paychecks are not due to be distributed until 31 August 2009. At that time, optimistic speculation about the impact of the furlough based paycut will be replaced with a reality check.

To provide faculty, both full and part time, some options for ensuring that their mortgage and car payments do not fall behind, employment links are posted on this (first) page of the newsletter.

EMPLOYMENT

For the Un- and Underemployed

Even though California Junior Colleges have also been subjected to severe budget cuts, many of them still have openings for part and full time employment. An excellent source of Junior College employment information is the CCC Registry.

A search for “criminal justice” without other qualifiers will find a variety of positions nationwide and there are always some postings for California. The search engine on the website appears to be very efficient and a simple search will yield many openings in the State of California.
In Pakistan a husband contested his fatherhood after his wife became pregnant during her 9 month absence from home. He requested that a DNA test be taken. The Lahore High Court denied the request and stated that the woman’s statement along with the existence of a child was sufficient to prove the husband’s fatherhood.

In spite of earlier denials, members of the LeT (Lashkar I Taiba) group in Pakistan were found to have masterminded the 26 November 2008 attack in Mumbai that claimed the lives of at least 166 people.

With an initial reluctance to acknowledge the involvement of Pakistanis, the Pakistan government has since expanded its cooperation with Indian authorities and on 5 August 2009, the Special Investigation Unit of the Federal Investigation Agency of Pakistan, arrested Jamil Ahmed, the sixth suspect who has been placed into custody by the agency so far, and who is suspected of having been involved in facilitating and executing the attacks. Ahmed is also linked to the LeT.

All suspects have their cases heard in a special anti-terrorism court. The other five suspects are also LeT operatives, and consist of operations commander Zakiur Rehman Lakhvi, Abu Al-Qama, Zarar Shah, Shahid Jamil Riaz and Hamad Amin Sadiq. All were arrested by the Federal Investigation Agency’s Special Investigations Unit.

The next hearings in the case are set for 29 August 2009 and Ahmed has been remanded to the custody of the court at least until 3 September 2009. Pakistani Police are also looking for 13 other suspects involved in the Mumbai attacks.

SKYWATCH...

Reading the details about individual activities of the Fresno Police Air Support Unit, it was notable to find that more than one third of them involved parolees or probationers. Skywatch statistics also show that it makes a significant contribution to the safety of the public, and provides critical assistance to officers from Fresno PD and surrounding agencies.
